Roots of Love

A 3 day workshop in Family Constellations

(With Active Meditations)

with Svagito R. Liebermeister

22nd-24th April 2011 ~ Central London

‘This workshop will support participants in becoming aware of the unconscious energy patterns that they took on as children from their families & thereby will support them in a radical movement beyond the boundries of what they previously thought possible’

In Systemic Family Therapy, as developed by Bert Hellinger, we are trying to find peace and reconciliation with the members of our family, both original and present and we heal any difficulties in the man-woman relationship. Because of a child's deep bonding to his parents and his need to belong, suffering in a family continues sometimes over many generations. Nobody is consciously choosing this, but there is often a deep identification at the source of such suffering. In the work of Family Constellation we uncover this underlying mechanism and take a step out of such identifications.

With the help of other group members we create a constellation of our family or of a relationship and it becomes possible to see in which way we are entangled with the life of others. When we include and open our heart to an excluded family member, we gain a certain wholeness and inner strength, similar to when we open up to disowned aspects of ourselves. When we leave the fate and sometimes a guilt or responsibility to someone it really belongs to, in that moment we become disentangled from the life of this person. This is only possible when we become conscious of the deep love that a child feels towards the members of his family and when we fall in tune with the collective part of our mind and our soul. Authentic healing is to be in wholehearted agreement with our soul and to experience oneself as part of the vaster movement of life itself.

Svagito R. Liebermeister

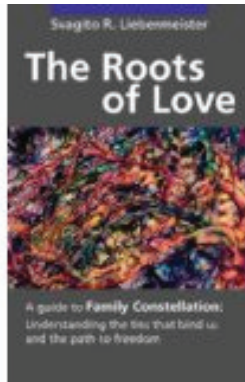

“You carry the whole history of a chain, of a heritage. in your eyes, in your colour, in your face, in your hair, in everything. You are not alone and there is no way to be alone here. The only way is to be connected to a link.” Osho

Svagito R. Liebermeister holds a degree in psychology from Munich University, and has over 28 years practical experience in working with people as a therapist. He has studied a wide range of therapeutic approaches and meditation techniques and has trained hundreds of practitioners worldwide in the art of working with people. Currently he is the coordinator of the annual Therapist Training Program at the Osho Meditation Resort in Pune, India, one of the largest personal growth centers in the world. Every year, he travels extensively throughout Europe, Asia and Central America, offering courses and training programs in over 15 different countries.

Svagito is the author of the book “The Roots of Love. A Guide to Family Constellation”, which has been translated into various languages.

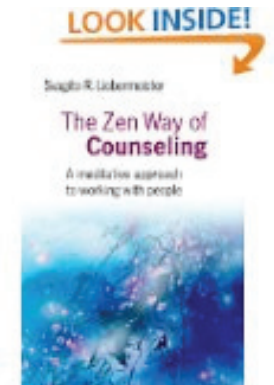

His latest book ‘The Zen Way of Counseling- a meditative approach to working with people’ and a new meditation CD has just been published recently.

The Roots of Love:
A guide to Family Constellation

Understanding the ties that bind us and the path to freedom

This book examines the roots of love in families. It explains what leads us into suffering and what can lead us out of it, and how to grow toward a more conscious love.

The Zen Way of Counselling:

A Meditative Approach to Working with People

This book presents a way of counseling that is rooted in meditation. It explores a spiritual approach to therapy, revealing the essence of how personal growth actually occurs “Half of your being consists of your mother and half of your being consists of your father. You are here because of them; if they were not here you would not be here. All that is happening to you is, in a way, because of them... One has to become aware of this...

So whatsoever they have done you have to feel grateful for. And whatsoever is happening to you and will happen to you, they remain the causes... They remain your foundation - so don't forget the foundation, that's all.”

A note from the organiser: Hello Everyone! This is Svagito's first UK workshop, based on the success of this workshop we will be bringing Svagito's longer trainings to the UK starting in 2012. I personally have completed several Psychotherapy foundation years in various institutes, have been in individual Psychotherapy for several years, I have explored working on myself in various different fields of healing including Rebirthing/Holotropic Breathwork & 5 rhythms dance aswell as having worked with 6 different internationally renowned Family Constellations teachers. What I received from Svagito in terms of teaching & healing was RADICAL. Before I had worked with Svagito my relationship to myself & my immediate family was far from 'healthy'. After only 8days of training with Svagito I arrived at a point within myself that had elluded me throughout several years of working on myself using other kinds of therapy. If you really want to deal with the difficulties/issues that stop you from moving forward in your life then join us!!! I very much look forward to travelling with you on this journey towards Love.
